MISSOULA--

Rick Applegate, director of the Center for the Public Interest Inc., Bozeman, will discuss the "Ski Yellowstone" proposal at 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 23, in room 131 of the Science Complex at the University of Montana in Missoula.

"Ski Yellowstone," a winter resort planned for construction on Hebgen Mountain, north of Hebgen Lake near West Yellowstone, is the subject of a controversy between developers and environmentalists.

According to a press release from the University Center Programming Services office at UM, Applegate is opposed to the "Ski Yellowstone" development for environmental reasons.

Monday's program is one in a series of public forums sponsored by UC Programming Services.
